

SPIE Early Career Member Slack Workspace: What's in it for you?

Check out the Slack channels available at your fingertips.

Welcome

The first channel you'll see when entering the workspace. Explains the intention of the space, how to get started, and group rules.

1

News

This channel will inform you of important SPIE news, upcoming grant opportunities, and professional development events. You will want your notifications on for this one!

2

Community

What's going on in your area? Share the news of upcoming job fairs, conferences, and networking and learning opportunities with the community.

3

Ask a mentor

Do you have a question about the next steps for your education, career, or maybe life in general? This channel has a group of passionate peers and mentors seasoned in the field of optics and photonics here to help answer your questions. Don't be afraid to ask!

4

Resources

This channel contains links to mission-critical resources for your career advancement. SPIE staff will post when see something helpful, but feel free to share your own resources to spread awareness in the community.

5

Random

This channel is for anything fun to uplift the community. It's a place for pet photos, celebrating recent accomplishments, spur-of-the-moment ideas, and funny GIFs. The world is your oyster!
